

EQ THE ELIZABETH LOFTS QUARTERLY NEWSLETTER

A Note from the EQ Staff regarding EQ18

It's mid-January and you are probably expecting another issue of EQ. In EQ 17 we said that the next issue would highlight some of our favorite articles over the past four years. This was to give the staff and our many contributors a much needed break and to re-envision what EQ might be going forward. That is still the plan.

We are planning on a March 1 publication date. In the meantime, we invite you to revisit an article on the Portland Winter Lights Festival to get you in the mood to venture out to the 2024 Festival scheduled for February 2-10. A fan favorite of last year's festival is Mechan 42, a 12-foot-tall robot. Originally installed on the waterfront, he has been getting around. After spending most of last year by the Portland Art Museum, he has moved again to just around the corner on 13th between Everett and Flanders St.

The EQ Staff

